Employee Foils Armed Robbery

Safety, from Page 1

Glanvill said she has "heard nothing negative" about the expansion so far. The cost of the new vans and the police presence to accommodate them had caused some complaints, but she said that these were "minor inconveniences." She noted that the addition of the vans was the result of a decision made by the Campus Safety Commission. The commission was formed in response to a series of incidents on campus in recent years, including a series of burglaries.

Three Win Valuable Scholarships

Scholars, from Page 1

Blasch is a junior in mechanical engineering and plans to study for a master's degree at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, and Massey is a junior in electrical engineering.

Early Applicants Drop 8 Percent

Admissions, from Page 1

Two-thirds of the customers said that they were interested in early action, but they would not apply unless they were admitted or deferred to be considered for admission. Some students said that they would not apply early action because they did not want to wait until the regular decision process was completed. Others said that they were interested in early action because they wanted to have a head start on their college plans. Ultimately, the University's admissions office decided that it would continue to offer early action, but that it would be different for each year. The University's admissions office planned to wait until after mid-October before deciding whether to offer early action the following year.

Athena Security Incident Probled

Athena, from Page 1

DCNS explicitly released the number of customers affected by the breach, indicating that customers were probably not at risk of identity theft. The company did not provide any additional details about the incident, including the cause of the breach or the identity of the attacker. The company also did not say how many customers were affected by the breach.

For the price of an ice cream cone, can we pick lunch?

United Way

This space is brought to you by The Tech