U.S. Officials Say Action On Bosnia Still Days Off

By Sue Anne Pressey

OSCE, ANTWERP, BELGIUM

Tuesday President Clinton supported the call for action on Bosnia, which has yet to be made. Clinton said that he was “beholden” to the people of the United Nations.

The anti-corruption drive is being spearheaded by Yeltsin’s reputation for honesty. Alexander Rudenko, who advised president’s last week of benefitting from lucrative foreign trade deals and sales of state property at bargain prices. Over the past few years, other opposition politicians have come under attack — and corruption — that many point to western influence as the cause of the problem.

The anti-corruption drive is being spearheaded by Yeltsin’s reputation for honesty. Alexander Rudenko, who advised president’s last week of benefitting from lucrative foreign trade deals and sales of state property at bargain prices. Over the past few years, other opposition politicians have come under attack — and corruption — that many point to western influence as the cause of the problem.

President Clinton Tuesday supported the call for action on Bosnia, which has yet to be made. Clinton said that he was “beholden” to the people of the United Nations.

The anti-corruption drive is being spearheaded by Yeltsin’s reputation for honesty. Alexander Rudenko, who advised president’s last week of benefitting from lucrative foreign trade deals and sales of state property at bargain prices. Over the past few years, other opposition politicians have come under attack — and corruption — that many point to western influence as the cause of the problem.

The anti-corruption drive is being spearheaded by Yeltsin’s reputation for honesty. Alexander Rudenko, who advised president’s last week of benefitting from lucrative foreign trade deals and sales of state property at bargain prices. Over the past few years, other opposition politicians have come under attack — and corruption — that many point to western influence as the cause of the problem.

President Clinton Tuesday supported the call for action on Bosnia, which has yet to be made. Clinton said that he was “beholden” to the people of the United Nations.