By lover and his friend are killed after they use the brief. Roberts is near perfect, and plays the stressed and paranoid student to the hilt. Washington is convincing playing the determined reporter who will stop at nothing to get a story. The strength of the film is in how it is able to carefully develop its plot and keep the audience's attention until contents of the brief are revealed at the very end. — Patrick Mahoney, Loews Cinema

* Schindler's List

Director Steven Spielberg triumphs in this historical drama about Oskar Schindler (Liam Neeson), who was responsible for saving the lives of more than a thousand Jews during the Holocaust. Shot almost entirely in black and white, the film takes you to Poland of the late 30s and early 40s. Neeson is great, carefully portraying the slow change from a man who cares only about money to one who cares only about saving lives. Ben Kingsley perfectly plays Itzhak Stern, Schindler's Jewish accountant who cunningly sidesteps Nazi officials. Ralph Fiennes portrays the unwaveringly noble Anne Frank, the Commandant of the Nazi labor camp. Through Fiennes, the audience is able to witness the hatred, brutality, and widespread death of Hitler's "final solution." Overall, the movie is incredibly powerful and brings to light one of the darkest periods of human history. —PM, Loews Cinema
