profanity. He also said he asked permission from the dormitory desk before going to the restroom. "Coming out of the restroom, I was rudely accosted by a group of women who were coming up the stairs behind me... I tried to ignore them for a short space of time. And eventually, when we got to the top of the stairs I became very angry, and expressed my annoyance to the people who were behind me."

Lefkowitz cited this incident from an article in the May/June (1993 issue of heterodoxy, a national publication, for her article. Lefkowitz would not comment on the suit. But she said, "He has been very angry at me about some of my writings on ancient history."

Martin criticized for new book

Currently, Martin is the focus of a controversy at Wellesley for his new book, the Jewish Outreach: Dispatches from the Wellesley Battlefront.

The book has provoked a response from the Wellesley administer. Wellesley President Diane Chapman Walsh wrote a letter to the Wellesley community condemning Tony Martin's new book as using "recurrent and gratuitous use of racial or religious identification of individuals."

Martin defends his book in his broadside. He wrote, "The Jewish Outreach was published as a response to the unprincipled attacks, defamatory statements, assaults on my livelihood, and physical threats directed against me for several months. These emanated primarily from the Jewish community and its agents, and were triggered by my classroom use of a work detailing Jewish involvement in the African slave trade."

Martin has taught Africana Studies at Wellesley for the past 21 years.

As Equal Opportunity Employer

OUTSTANDING SCIENCE IS OUR CULTURE.

At Genentech, we believe that creating an environment where outstanding science leads to solving problems and discovering new, often unanticipated, opportunities is the most important element of our culture.

Since our founding in 1976, Genentech has marketed more products than any other company. Without exception, our people, who are diverse in background, skills, and values, have played a major role in the development and marketing of our products.

Today, Schlumberger employs more than 52,000 people in 75 countries with annual revenues approaching $7 billion.

Schlumberger is comprised of two main business groups: oilfield services, which offers a complete range of energy exploration and recovery services; and Measurement and Sensors which produces everything from utility meters to automatic test equipment.

The Schlumberger Companies value individual initiative. If you'd rather lead than follow, and enjoy the recognition that goes along with taking responsibility for the work you direct, contact us today. We'll give you the support, training and opportunity you need to meet the challenge.

Genentech offers an exceptional benefits package which includes fully paid medical/dental/vision coverage for you and your dependents, and free health club membership. If unable to meet with us on campus, send your resume to Genentech, Inc., Human Resources, Dept TS-MIT, P.O. Box 806, Framingham, MA 01701. As a part of the Genentech commitment to diversity, we actively support and promote affirmative action and equal employment opportunity. We encourage minorities and women to apply.
