Drum Problem Will Not End With Investigation

In response to the article regarding dormitory upgrades ("Draft Hearing Proposal Calls for Dorm Upgrades," Feb. 25), no investigation into drug use at MIT will ever take away the reasons why MIT students use drugs.

Letters To The Editor

No Further Action Needed against Kessler

The Tech received a copy of the following statement, released by the Undergraduate Association and Judicial Review Board:

"In the matter of Raja Chitaley's complaint of November 7, 1993 against Douglas Wyatt, the Judicial Review Board does not find any evidence that Wyatt in any way abused his powers as a member of the Finance Board. Investigation has shown that the information for the story which was featured in The Thistle was obtained by entirely legitimate means. Kessler stated that he knew that Student Activity Account information is private; however, he believed that transactions of the Bush Fund, because of the unique character of the fund, are public information. Information has shown that this is not the case: the Bush Fund is not an exception. These findings are based primarily on meetings with Associate Dean Andrew M. Eisenmann '75 and Director of Legal Affairs Thomas Hammerby. Hammerby gave Kessler general advice on the legality of releasing such information, but specifically

No Target Living Groups

Now that the Inter-Campus Undergraduate Association Committee on Housing and Residence and Orientation seems to have performed the difficult task of determining the only living groups on campus which have an unacceptable level of drug and alcohol abuse through the reliable method of voluntary surveys, I encourage them to continue their mission until they find exactly which students are responsible and print their names in The Tech as well.

OPINION

Opinion Policy

Editorials, printed in a distinctive format, are the official opinion of The Tech. They are written by the editorial board, which consists of the chairwoman, editor in chief, managing editor, executive editor, news editor, and opinion editor. Editorial comments, marked as such and printed in a distinctive format, are the opinions of the signed members of the editorial board choosing to publish their disagreement with the editorial. Columns, including editorial cartoons, are written by individuals and represent the opinion of the author, not necessarily that of The Tech. Letters to the editor are welcome. They must be typed, double-spaced and addressed to The Tech. P.O. Box 397029, Cambridge, Mass. 02139-7029, or by interdepartmental mail to Room W26-483. Electronic submissions in plain text format may be mailed to letters@the-tech.mit.edu. All submissions are due by 4 p.m. two days before the date of publication.

Letters and cartoons must bear the author's signatures, address, es, and phone numbers. Unsigned letters will not be accepted. No letters or columns will be returned. The Tech reserves the right to edit, condense letters; shorter letters will be given higher priority. Once submitted, all letters become property of The Tech, and will not be returned. We regret we cannot publish all of the letters we receive.
