Baseball Drops Doubleheader to Coast Guard

By Thomas Kettler

The men's baseball team lost a doubleheader Saturday to the Coast Guard Academy Bears by scores of 3-1 and 3-0 at Briggs Field. The losses left the team 6-9 overall and 2-4 in the Constitution Athletic Conference (1-4).

In the first game, the Coast Guard scored all their runs in the first inning. Aaron Waters led the game with a double. Jon Gass '94 then followed with an infield single but Waters could not advance. After the next batter flew out, Bob Bick-erstaff forced Zawrotny at second. Then Eric Brelifey hit a home run to left that just stayed fair while clearing the fence.

The Bears could have scored another run in the third if not for an excellent defensive play. Zawrotny led off with a single. He advanced to third on a throwing error by pitcher Brooks Mendell. G. Dave King of the Academy hit a fly to deep right. Right fielder Rob Lepard caught the ball and then threw a perfect strike to nail Zawrotny at home plate. After a double by Bick-erstaff, Brelifey flew out to end the inning.

At the same time, Scott Weaver of the Coast Guard befuddled the MIT batters. They could not get a perfect strike to nail Zawrotny at first inning. Aaron Waters led the game with a double. Jim Zawrotny then followed with an infield single but Waters could not advance. After the next batter flew out, Bob Bick-erstaff forced Zawrotny at second. Then Eric Brelifey hit a home run to left that just stayed fair while clearing the fence.
