Women's Volleyball Beats Babson, Bows to Smith

By Daniel Wang

The women's volleyball team concluded its first of two post-season tournaments Saturday at the New England Women's Eight Conference Tournament. The Engineers, as the top seed, had home court advantage for the first round, then advanced to play the latter rounds at Mount Holyoke College.

MIT defeated Babson College in the first round, 3-0, but then suffered as upset in the semifinals to Smith College. The results gave the team an overall record of 30-7.

Women's Ice Hockey Suffers Loss to UPenn

By Gara Mendez

The women's ice hockey team met the University of Pennsylvania Tuesday at the Johnson Athletic Center Saturday afternoon. The game ended 6-2 in favor of Penn, which is second in the ECAC East.

The starting offensive lineup consisted of Gina Ferrante '98, Cailin Wo G, and Andhrae Narula G. They worked hard defensively, scoring one goal within the first period. We scored the goal off a rebound, with an assist credited to Narula. We later scored another goal in a similar fashion in the second period.
