Redesign to Include Bike Lanes

Lanes, from Page 1

lane from 3 feet, 6 inches to 4 feet. Owan said.

Another part of the proposal is to install a traffic signal at the Massachusetts Avenue and Memorial Drive intersection, Owan said. In addition, the Massachusetts Avenue bicycle lanes would be connected with the Dudley White Bike Path on Memorial Drive, he said.
Parking near the intersections of Massachusetts Avenue with Vassar Street and Albany Street would be eliminated to provide left and right turn lanes, and new signs would be installed. The plan also calls for connecting the Massachusetts Avenue bicycle lanes to two-way lanes on Vassar Street.

At the beginning of the meeting, Owan reviewed the work done by three local committees. In 1991, the Mayor’s Bicycle Committee planned a city-wide network of bicycle paths. The Cambridge Bicycle Committee proposed a Crowsneck Bikeway from the Boston University Bridge to the Minuteman Bikeway in Alewife. A 1993 MIT Advisory Committee potential advantages, he said. If students benefit from the new system, their approval will be reflected in their ratings of the course in next term’s Course Evaluation Guide. If they rated the course higher, he said, only then will the change be shown to have been worth it.

---

Some Displeased with New 8.01

8.01, from Page 1

This is the first term that the new format is being used. The system, which consists of one full-sized lecture and three smaller recitations each week, replaces the traditional three lecture, two recitation system that has been used in years past.

According to a recent class survey conducted by 8.01 professors, all of the students taking 8.01, more than half gave the class seven or above on a scale of ten, and 15 percent of the students gave 8.01 a full score of ten. “I’ve never seen students so attentive in a class,” Buzsa said. “Based on the survey, I say the class is a success.”

Students like personal attention

LaMacchia, from Page 1

inark of the use of the wire fraud law and on constitutional infringements of LaMacchia’s rights, said Harvey A. Silverglate, one of LaMacchia’s attorneys.

The defense also filed a motion to suppress evidence. Oral arguments on the two motions will be made this Friday at 2 p.m. before Judge Buzsa in U.S. District Court at the federal courthouse in Boston, Silverglate said.

Some students are pleased

Some students are disturbed that the grading and teaching varies from class to class. However, “the grades are adjust-

Judge to Hear Pre-trial Motions

Dowling doesn’t apply

The government charged LaMacchia with violating the fed-

This is the first term that the new format is being used. The system, which consists of one full-sized lecture and three smaller recitations each week, replaces the traditional three lecture, two recitation system that has been used in years past.

According to a recent class survey conducted by 8.01 professors, all of the students taking 8.01, more than half gave the class seven or above on a scale of ten, and 15 percent of the students gave 8.01 a full score of ten. “I’ve never seen students so attentive in a class,” Buzsa said. “Based on the survey, I say the class is a success.”

Students like personal attention

LaMacchia, from Page 1

inark of the use of the wire fraud law and on constitutional infringements of LaMacchia’s rights, said Harvey A. Silverglate, one of LaMacchia’s attorneys.

The defense also filed a motion to suppress evidence. Oral arguments on the two motions will be made this Friday at 2 p.m. before Judge Buzsa in U.S. District Court at the federal
ture, and the Monday in-class demonstra-

Some students find the small

others say that they enjoy the

Making plans for IAP?

Consider Hurricane Andrew Relief

The MIT Board of Chaplains is sponsoring a Florida trip to rebuild homes damaged two years ago in Hurricane Andrew. Work teams will focus on persons who were uninsured, underinsured, or were victims of insurance fraud.

Both skilled and unskilled workers needed.

Recreational day trips are an option.

Dates: January 23–31
Cost: $450, Deposit $100

For information, contact:
John Wuestneck — e-mail: chaplain@mit.edu
Mary Karen Powers, RSM — e-mail: mkp@mit.edu

---

WE’VE BEEN USING THE SAME RECIPE FOR 75 YEARS.

In 1919 Ma Edelstein opened her new restaurant. The S&6. The name came from the Yiddish expression essen essen, or eat eat! And it summed up Ma’s philosophy.

75 years later Ma’s great grandson and granddaughter are keeping up the tradition and serving a lot more than just deli. In portions that Ma would have been proud of.

are keeping up the tradition and serving a lot more than just deli. These days you can get everything from grilled salmon, to a boarini burger, to chocolate mouse pie, to great deli. In portions that Ma would have been proud of. Stop by and see why, the more things change the 75 years later Ma’s great grandson and granddaughter are keeping up the tradition and serving a lot more than just deli. These days you can get everything from grilled salmon, to a boarini burger, to chocolate mouse pie, to great deli. In portions that Ma would have been proud of. Stop by and see why, the more things change the

---

Judge to Hear Pre-trial Motions

Dowling doesn’t apply

The government charged LaMacchia with violating the fed-

This is the first term that the new format is being used. The system, which consists of one full-sized lecture and three smaller recitations each week, replaces the traditional three lecture, two recitation system that has been used in years past.

According to a recent class survey conducted by 8.01 professors, all of the students taking 8.01, more than half gave the class seven or above on a scale of ten, and 15 percent of the students gave 8.01 a full score of ten. “I’ve never seen students so attentive in a class,” Buzsa said. “Based on the survey, I say the class is a success.”

Students like personal attention

LaMacchia, from Page 1

inark of the use of the wire fraud law and on constitutional infringements of LaMacchia’s rights, said Harvey A. Silverglate, one of LaMacchia’s attorneys.

The defense also filed a motion to suppress evidence. Oral arguments on the two motions will be made this Friday at 2 p.m. before Judge Buzsa in U.S. District Court at the federal
ture, and the Monday in-class demonstra-

Some students find the small

others say that they enjoy the

Making plans for IAP?

Consider Hurricane Andrew Relief

The MIT Board of Chaplains is sponsoring a Florida trip to rebuild homes damaged two years ago in Hurricane Andrew. Work teams will focus on persons who were uninsured, underinsured, or were victims of insurance fraud.

Both skilled and unskilled workers needed.

Recreational day trips are an option.

Dates: January 23–31
Cost: $450, Deposit $100

For information, contact:
John Wuestneck — e-mail: chaplain@mit.edu
Mary Karen Powers, RSM — e-mail: mkp@mit.edu

---

WE’VE BEEN USING THE SAME RECIPE FOR 75 YEARS.

In 1919 Ma Edelstein opened her new restaurant. The S&6. The name came from the Yiddish expression essen essen, or eat eat! And it summed up Ma’s philosophy.

75 years later Ma’s great grandson and granddaughter are keeping up the tradition and serving a lot more than just deli. In portions that Ma would have been proud of. Stop by and see why, the more things change the

---

Judge to Hear Pre-trial Motions

Dowling doesn’t apply

The government charged LaMacchia with violating the fed-

This is the first term that the new format is being used. The system, which consists of one full-sized lecture and three smaller recitations each week, replaces the traditional three lecture, two recitation system that has been used in years past.

According to a recent class survey conducted by 8.01 professors, all of the students taking 8.01, more than half gave the class seven or above on a scale of ten, and 15 percent of the students gave 8.01 a full score of ten. “I’ve never seen students so attentive in a class,” Buzsa said. “Based on the survey, I say the class is a success.”

Students like personal attention

LaMacchia, from Page 1

inark of the use of the wire fraud law and on constitutional infringements of LaMacchia’s rights, said Harvey A. Silverglate, one of LaMacchia’s attorneys.

The defense also filed a motion to suppress evidence. Oral arguments on the two motions will be made this Friday at 2 p.m. before Judge Buzsa in U.S. District Court at the federal
ture, and the Monday in-class demonstra-

Some students find the small

others say that they enjoy the

Making plans for IAP?

Consider Hurricane Andrew Relief

The MIT Board of Chaplains is sponsoring a Florida trip to rebuild homes damaged two years ago in Hurricane Andrew. Work teams will focus on persons who were uninsured, underinsured, or were victims of insurance fraud.

Both skilled and unskilled workers needed.

Recreational day trips are an option.

Dates: January 23–31
Cost: $450, Deposit $100

For information, contact:
John Wuestneck — e-mail: chaplain@mit.edu
Mary Karen Powers, RSM — e-mail: mkp@mit.edu