Tremont Theatre.

During the coming week Miss O'Neil will be seen in revivals of the plays that originally introduced her and gave her a foothold in Boston. On Monday evening and Wednesday afternoon "Magda" will be given; on Tuesday evening the sensational Sudermann drama entitled "The Fires of St. John," will be presented for the only time; on Wednesday and Saturday evenings "The Jewess" will be revived; on all the remaining performances of the second week, namely, Thursday and Friday evenings and Saturday afternoon "Camille" will be given.

Majestic Theatre.

An almost entirely new edition of Samuel E. Rork's spectacular musical merriment, "The Filibuster," will be given at the Majestic this evening on the occasion of the beginning of the last week of the Boston engagement. New people have been engaged, and practically every bit of business will be new this week. Among the changes in the cast will be that successful comedian, Frank Lalor, in the leading comedy role of Bunny.

Globe Theatre.

Ward and Vokes, with a big company, will be at the Globe this week. This year their show is bigger, better, brighter than ever. The company numbers fifty-five people and every particle of music and all of the songs are entirely new, having all been composed especially for this production.

Empire Theatre.

The bill at the Empire this week is as follows: Stuart, "The Male Patti;" Harry LaRose, in Will M. Cressy's one-act comedy, "The Sailor and the Horse;" Hughey Dougherty, the veteran minstrel; Carlisle's trained ponies and dogs; the four Melrose brothers, acrobats; Yackley and Bunnell, black-face musical comedians, and Bissett and Scott, two young men who can dance.
