The officers of THE TECH for next year are as follows: C. T. Bartlett, '06, Editor-in-Chief; Willis Ranney, '06, Managing Editor; Malcolm McLeod, Business Manager.

Some comment has been current upon the fact that seats for Tech Night to-morrow evening are being sold at an advance of The Pops. twenty-five cents over regular Pop prices. In order to insure that none but Technology adherents obtain seats it was necessary for the Alumni Committee to buy up the entire house, and to accomplish this and to cover the many other expenses incidental to assuring a rousing gathering the extra charge was found necessary. However, the tickets are still being sold under value, for not even the most enthusiastic can believe that Tech night is worth less than a dozen routine Pop Concerts.

The plan of having a reunion meeting every third June after graduation, which has been proposed by the graduating class, and Three-Year Reunions. which will it is hoped institute a custom to be followed by all succeeding classes, is a great step in advance. Heretofore class reunions have been held at irregular times and utterly without system, and in consequence the class organizations have in general become weaker with each succeeding year after graduation.

It may at first sight seem that these three-year reunions would interfere with the general five-year Alumni Reunions, but this could hardly become serious, for the new plan for class gatherings is simply a systemization of the present erratic meetings. Further, it should actually augment the enthusiasm for the quinquennial meetings by promoting that strong class spirit without which the spirit of the Alumni as a whole must be nil.
