We regret to announce the resignation of Mr. R. P. Lowe, 1907, from the Editorial Staff of THE TECH.

We are glad to note that corned-beef hash is not on the menu of the new lunch room.

The announcement made by Prof. Swain of a series of readings, to which he invites the men of Courses I and XI, is Broadening Influence. We understand that the matter has been under consideration for some time, and those men for whom the readings are especially intended are most sincerely to be congratulated. In the first place it is pleasant to be read to, and Prof. Swain certainly shows a great regard for the students in his department when he undertakes such a task. A course of this kind cannot fail to be interesting. But in addition to the pleasure assured his listeners, there is the opportunity to hear and to learn to appreciate the best efforts of some of the greatest writers. Those men who do not care for books or reading are the very ones who can profit most by attending these exercises; and those whose tastes already incline sufficiently to literature, at least enough so to enjoy a good book, should feel most delighted at the invitation which Prof. Swain gives them.

COMMUNICATION.

The Editors do not hold themselves responsible for opinions expressed by correspondents.

STUDENTS OF TECHNOLOGY: Some days ago the Board of Editors of Technique '07 sent a circular letter to every student in the Institute. The object of this letter was to secure the co-operation of the students.

Our annual is in no sense of the word a class affair. To make the book truly representative of the Institute as a whole, the Board must have the co-operation of every student. The number of men on the Board is so small compared to the total number of students that there must necessarily be many good things happening around the Institute which entirely escape the notice of the editors. This is true not only in the line of grinds, but in every way. The Board needs new ideas. If any student has an idea which he thinks could be developed to advantage in Technique, let him see the Editor-in-Chief or any member of the Board, or leave a note at the Cage, and give the Board the benefit of his idea.

One department of the book which especially needs the co-operation of the students is the Art Department. The architects, who have contributed most of the drawings in past Techniques have with one or two exceptions done nothing at all this year. It is now up to every man in the Institute, and especially every Junior, who has any ability at all in this line, to hand in three or four drawings before January 1. Those who intend to do any work for the 1907 Technique will please communicate with H. S. Wonson, '07.

The Board of Editors sincerely hopes that this and other appeals made to the students will not go unheeded. Technique holds an enviable reputation among college annuals of today, and it remains for the students of the Institute to see that this reputation is upheld.

A. H. DONNEWALD,
Editor-in-Chief, Technique 1907.

Technology was defeated by the Union Chess Club last week by a score of 3 to 2. The Chess Club will play Harvard tomorrow evening at the Harvard Union.
