TECHNIQUE 1907.

the various mootable, and the reviewer cannot help feeling, regrettable, personalities involved. But the mere selection of this form is, in its way, a master stroke; only, once done it is done for all time. As parody the piece is capital,—not in the working out of its detail, but in the flash of perception that discerned that the thing parodied was thus adaptable.

On the whole the reviewer believes that Technique 1907 will realize, to many a man, its stated aspiration :

"To smooth rough ways and conjure up a smile;"

and, he trusts, equally, to

..... "hold
The heart in generous love for all that makes

Our stern old Tech to us worth while."

Editors and college body alike have good cause to feel gratified with their annual. He who neglects it will miss much cleverness and fun.

SOCIETY OF ARTS TO MEET.

Th 623d regular meeting of the Society of Arts will be held in 22 Walker, Thursday at eight o'clock.
Mr. H. F. J. Porter of New York will address the Society on the subject of "The Rationale of the Industrial Betterment Movement." The lecture will be illustrated by lantern slides. Members are requested to invite friends interested in the subject.

SPRING CONCERT AND DANCE.

of eleven numbers, including a 'Cello Solo by Thompson, '08, Banjo Solo by Fales, '07, and a Tenor Solo by Jenkins, '09. The final number brings all of the clubs on the stage in the famous Stein Song. The clubs are anxious to begin the Concert promptly at eight o'clock, so that the dancing may begin promptly at ten. At the Winter Concert the audience necessitated a late start by not being on time.

The dance order consists of fourteen numbers and will be found on the last page of the program; music will be furnished by Poole's Orchestra. If the dance hall is crowded the management hopes that the fellows will patronize Woolson Hall, where orange frappe and ice cream will be served free.

The evening promises to eclipse all others both in attendance and in the quality of the concert. The body of the house has been sold but a number of good seats may be had this morning in Rogers Corridor or this evening at New Century Building.

MOSES ELECTED VICE-PRES OF '09.

Ballots for Vice-President of the Freshman Class were called in at the Cage Monday afternoon. A. L.
Moses, B. E. Hutchinson, and G. L.
Lawrence were nominated. Moses was elected by a considerable majority although the number of ballots cast was small as very few class dues had been paid.
