PARK THEATRE

Clara Bloodgood will have only one more week of her engagement at the Park Theatre where "The Truth" has proved one of the most brilliant of plays recently given to the American stage by Clyde Fitch. He has been especially fortunate in fitting the star with the sort of a character that she plays so well and Charles Frohman has done the rest by providing an exceptionally strong supporting company for the production.

Professor Andrew N. Grabau of the department of geology at Columbia University has been awarded the first Walker prize, given each year by the Institute for the best memoir on a scientific subject. Professor Grabau submitted an essay on "The Interpretation of Sedimentary Overlap."
