HOLLIS STREET THEATRE.

William Gillette and "Clarice" will prove to many a doubly interesting bill at the Hollis Street Theatre, for it was in this city that the first great success of this charming play was won. Last year it made the sensation of the winter, and Mr. Gillette and his company moved from one theatre to another just as long as the engagements in other places could be cancelled. He returns in his original character and the supporting company will be headed by Marie Doro who will assume the title role, in which she delighted so many playgoers last winter.

Theatre has presented to its patrons in a long time, and "The Little Cherub" is just as magnetic as ever. The fun is fast and furious in this lively and up to date entertainment, and the sparkling melodies are whistled all over town. College boys in particular enjoy them, and Tech has had a large delegation at each performance of this musical comedy since the opening of the engagement. The production is now in its second month here and the demand is just as large as it was at the start.

COLONIAL THEATRE.

Only one more week remains for Klaw and Erlanger's production of "The Grand Mogul" at the Colonial Theatre, and then it will be taken to New York where a long engagement will be played at the New Amsterdam Theatre. It has made a notable record for itself here and it will be greatly missed by the Tech boys who have seemed to have a monopoly on the front seats so as to catch the flowers which Elsa Ryan tosses across the footlights in her song. The college boys are all after these, and it makes a fine feature.

Indiana is out early with her 1907 football schedule. Forty-eight candidates for the Yale varsity crew got into shells upon the harbor Monday for the first time this season.

MAJESTIC THEATRE.

The Shubert's latest musical production "The Snow Man," by Reginald de Koven and Stanislaus Stange will begin an engagement of fourteen performances, 11 nights and three matinees, Monday March 18. The engagement concludes on Friday evening March 20, to allow the production to make its New York premiere at the Lyric Theatre. A clever company has been engaged for the production, with gorgeous scenery and hosts of pretty girls. Succeeding "The Snow Man" there will appear at the Majestic Theatre "Brown of Harvard" with Harry Woodruff in the title role.

PARK THEATRE.

Hattie Williams still continues as the jolliest star that the Park

That "Colleggy" Touch—

You know there's something about the style of the well-dressed college man's clothing that distinguishes him from the crowd.

This "colleggy" touch of distinction is only possessed by clothing made by first class houses who specialize in the production of college men's clothing. It's the especial mark of college men's clothing made by the well-known firm of
